

Beneficiary choice and decision-making

ISSUE: Beneficiaries make many choices related to Medicare. Our understanding of how they make decisions and respond to financial incentives has policy implications for designing more effective incentives.

KEY POINTS: We will present our analysis of plan switching under Part D and qualitative findings from focus groups.

ACTION: Commissioners should provide direction and feedback on our analytic questions and next steps for this work.

STAFF CONTACT: Julie Lee, Joan Sokolovsky, and Katelyn Smalley, (202) 220-3700